

Applications are now open for our 2025 course-work Masters programme in Aquatic Health, focusing on rivers and wetlands!

The programme is presented by the Department of Zoology, University of Johannesburg.

The programme aims to provide training at a professional and scientific level that qualifies candidates in managing riverine and wetland ecosystems.

We offer a flexible suite of advanced study options:

- Accredited (SAQA) individual modules and short courses, which are credit-bearing towards the Masters programme.
- A two-year Masters of Science programme encompassing coursework modules and a research project.

For more information on the programme objectives, course content, and entry requirements, please visit our website at:

<https://www.uj.ac.za/faculties/science/departments-2/zoology/programmes/masters-coursework-based/>, or contact the course coordinator at rgreenfield@uj.ac.za

Application can be submitted online at: <https://www.uj.ac.za/admission-aid/postgraduate/>

DEPARTMENT OF ZOOLOGY

Our Future
Reimagined